LITTLE BIT
...on most anything

It was Friday, the day after the New Year's holiday, when we walked in shortly before 10 a.m. to get the mail from our post office box.

This lady was standing there with a pained expression on her face, and was saying loud enough for everyone in the post office — employees included — to hear:

"This is the worst post office I've ever seen. Here it is 10 o'clock and the mail isn't even in the boxes yet." She went on in similar vein and tone.

Aside from the fact that it was the day after a holiday and the post office had more than a double run of mail, the post office had barely unburdened itself, literally, from being buried under a glut of holiday mail. And it's doubly difficult here in Seaside because so much of the mail goes overseas and requires special handling.

We remind ourselves that our postal employees take this lady's kind of abuse every day from thoughtless, impatient patrons We marvel at their cool.

And we promise our couriers who can't be stayed from their appointed rounds that the next time we're standing in line, maybe a little impatient ourselves, and we hear some complainer muttering, we'll not look the other way. We just might tell him where to get off.

If you've ever tried to find a house number while driving along a Seaside street at night, you will appreciate the favor Boy Scout Troop 108 is doing.

For a buck, the scouts will paint your house number on the curb — neatly, professionally — so you don't become a traffic hazard weaving down the street squinting to find house numbers.

Not only is the cause worthy — helping the troop raise funds for a winter encampment — but the service rendered is just what scouting is all about.

When Dr. Robert Fries, the county's assistant public health director, laid down his statistics before the grand jury, it might have touched off the spark to get some action out of the fragmented efforts to meeting the drug abuse crisis in the county.

The fact that the grand jury chose to emphasize that something has to be done now proves that Dr. Fries had his facts together.

Without even falling into the percentage trap, the numbers are sobering — 6,100 students between grades 7 and 12 exposed to drugs, more than 2,500 of them having used durgs on thePeninsula. Of that, 1,800 have experimented, and mind-you 850 are regular users.

We know the directors of the Drug Information and Youth Crisis Center organized more than two years ago welcome the help from the county health officials. But we imagine they find it hard to suppress — 'But that's what we've been trying to tell you.'

Same old story. 'My kid'd never get involved in this drug mess,' they say. Until mom and dad get called by the school principal to come walk with junior so he won't fall asleep and die from an overdose of downers. Never get any money from the Mr. Upright Citizens until their youngsters get mixed up in a drug ring — then all of a sudden the Uprights' service club manages to find nearly $10,000 to find out what's going on.

We certainly hope that all the efforts of the county and the newly formed Monterey Peninsula Unified School District citizens advisory committee will recognize the contribution already made by the Drug Information people and the wealth of knowledge they have already put to work.

They've had very rough going, and only recently had to bail out with a raffle just to get enough funds to keep going for a couple more months. The group lost Mrs. Lori Semple, a founder, recently, but she is still working privately in the field on the Peninsula.

Ray and Mary Doss are barely managing a living, but they still operat the crisis center, and last month had 13 overnight victims to bring down or wake up.

Authentic estimate place the heroin addiction total on the Peninsula at at least 200, probably double that. But to be conservative, use 200. It requires $50 a day to feed a heroin addict's habit. That makes $1,000 a day on the Peninsula, or more than $350,000 a year. Most addicts haven't got that kind of money laying around, so they steal it.

As Dr. Hobson reasons, if a half-way house for heroin addicts on the Peninsula were only half-successful it could reduce the burglarly loss by thousands of dollars alone . . . not to mention helping the addicts. He obviously believes it's worth some county funds.

But then no amount of statistics or appeal to reason or fancy rhetoric will ever spark much action, not until we recognize that it's not really a drug problem at all, but the failure of humans to understand and communicate and feel for one another.

Seaside Has Soft-Sell Summer, Monterey Hits All-Time High

While business in Seaside meandered on a mixed course last summer, Monterey sales hit an all-time high and Carmel slipped past Seaside into second place on the Monterey Peninsula.

The figures were contained in the quarterly sales tax report issued by the state Board of Equalization covering the June-July-August period.

The total business index for the period in Seaside was up slightly, thanks to the Rol-Seal Mfg. Co.

The local firm, which packages knives, forks and napkins for school-lunch and other such uses, had helped the index show a slight increase in the second period of this year, and again did so during the third quarter. It is included in the All Other category, which experienced a $312,000 increase over 1968. This more than offset the $173,000 decrease experienced in retail categories.

Taxable sales in Seaside for the third quarter of this year were $6,343,000 compared with $6,204,000 for the similar period of 1968.

Individually, most categories again showed decreases, at least two of which — Apparel and Drugs — have shown steady declines since early in 1967.

In the third quarter, Home Furnishings showed the largest decrease — $154,000 — followed by Auto Dealers with $135,000. Apparel was off by $36,000 and Drugs declined by $14,000 (prescription drugs are not taxable).

Eating Establishments experienced a $12,000 loss and Service Stations dropped $3,000 while General Merchandise declined by just $1,000.

Building Materials showed a healthy increase of $112,000 and Food Stores gained — by $41,000 (food itself is not taxable). Package Liquor stores had an increase of $19,000 and Other Retail was up $2,000.

Meanwhile, Monterey sales for the third quarter his $23,797,000, which topped the previous high in the final quarter of 1968 when Monterey sales totaled $22,846,000. Monterey sales have shown steady increases every quarter since Del Monte Center opened in October, 1967.

Carmel's taxable sales for the June - July - August period were exactly $7,000,000, a figure Seaside has never matched and a figure that was $657,000 over Seaside's total for the period.

All other cities on the Peninsula showed increases also — Del Rey Oaks a boost of $173,000 to $1,285,000; Pacific Grove a jump of $60,000 to $2,777,000; and Sand City more than double from $380,000 to $782,000.

Monterey also continued to grab a larger share of all taxable sales on the Peninsula. For nine months of 1969 Monterey's total sales were $66,329,000, an increase of more than $4 million over nine months of 1968. That means Monterey captured 57.8 per cent of the $114,703,000 total taxable sales on the Peninsula for the first nine months 1969.

Seaside's and Carmel's shares of the pie were almost identical. Seaside's total was $17,578,000 for 15.3 per cent while Carmel's was $17,439,000 for 15.2 per cent in the first nine months of 1969.

Chamber Installation Saturday

The dinner, at which Larry Nelson, manager of the Seaside branch of Wells Fargo Bank, will take over as president, will be held at the Mark Thomas Inn in Monterey. An informal reception at 6:30 p.m. will precede the dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Mayor Lou Haddad will install new officers, which include James Wester, first vice president; Bob Young, second vice president; Mrs. Dee Alsbury, third vice president; and Joe Ferreira, treasurer. Art Bayer is secretary-manager.

Master of Ceremonies will be Henry Ledeboer and the Rev. C. Lewis McFadden will deliver the invocation.

Honored for their service to the board will be outgoing president Dick Searle, and retiring directors Dick Hopelain, Duane Lyman, Lee Martelli, Bob Stroeh, John Vucina and Henry Zimmerman.

New directors to be inducted will be John Bean, Paul Davis, Jerry Hazelton, Rex Lincoln, John Mehrholz and Mrs. Connie Turqueza. Holdover directors are Tony Marrazzo, Ed Weiner and Ray Suzuki.

In charge of the dinner are Mrs. Alsbury, Davis and Young.

SCOUT PROJECT

BOY SCOUTS of Troop 108 in Seaside have begun a campaign to raise funds and at the same time help out residents, and the police and fire departments. The troop will paint house numbers on curbs for $1 each to help pay for equipment for its winter encampment, according to acting Scoutmaster Bob Stroeh. Scouts will be canvassing Seaside neighborhoods for the next several weeks. Showing hot it's done is Henry Leinen, with spray can, and James Russell, holding number. Numbers will be black on a white background. Looking on are City Manager Milt Farrell and Police Chief Bennie Cooper, kneeling, and Stroeh. Photo by Mike Hayworth.

A CROSS

WHEN Faith Lutheran Church was built at 1460 Hilby Ave. in Seaside in 1964, a cross was included in the plans, but a lack of money forced its elimination. Last week the congregation finally dedicated a new 25-foot redwood cross, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. John Papion of Seaside, members of the congregation. The structure was constructed by James Krejcir and planned by Ernest Anderlik. Shown here at the base of the new cross are Melvin Jahnke, president of the congregation, and the Rev. Robert Bendick, Faith Lutheran pastor. John Perkins Photo.

Zone Changes

Two zone changes head the agenda for the Seaside City Council this week, but a non-agenda item could grab top billing.

The council will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in city hall.

For introduction is an ordinance changing the zoning of Henrick's Standard service station at the corner of Fremont and Broadway from C-1 to C - R - S (Community Retail Service). The change would allow construction of a Standard station double the present size to be bounded by Olympia, Santa Barbara, Braodway and Fremont. The planning commission recommended the zone change.

Councilmen will also consider the recommended denial by the planners of a zone change in the Mescal, Plumas, Kimball, Highland area. A group of petitioners headed by James Clark seeks a zone change from R-2 to R-1, but planners voted against such a move last month.

Not on the agenda but likely to be raised is a demand made twice previously by Pat Patterson and the Committee for Justice and Fair Play to fire City Atty. Saul Weingarten.

In March of 1968 after a superior court civil suit judgment against Weingarten and again in November of 1969 after a state appeals court upheld the lower court decision Patterson's demands were turned down by councilmen. They said they would take no action until Weingarten had exhausted all available appeals in the suit.

Last week the state supreme court said it would not hear the case, thereby making the appellate court judgment final.

That found Weingarten guilty of legal malpractice and ordered him to pay $12,000 in compensatory damages Punitive damages had been dropped earlier.

Weingarten has maintained that the case in no way involves his work for the city, is no more serious than civilian negligence and says it does not affect his competence to serve as city attorney.

Patterson argues otherwise, contending there is a moral issue. He has demanded Weingarten's firing as counsel for the redevelopment agency also.

Annual Free Tree Day

The city of Seaside will hold its 11th annual Tree Give-Away Day Saturday, Jan. 10, at the city hall parking lot between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

There will be 1,000 Liquid Amber (sweet gum) seedlings and 1,000 Incense Cedar seedlings that are bare root, two years old and about 16 inches tall.

Planting instructions will be given with the seedlings, according to George Gerguson, city parks supervisor. If it should rain, the event will be postponed to the following Saturday, he said.

MPC Prof Warns Of Self-Destruction

Speaking to the Seaside Rotary Club this week, Dr. Richard H. Robinson, professor of biology at Monterey Peninsula College, suggested that man may be in the process of destroying himself by ignoring ecology in dealing with his environment.

Noting that it is encouraging that many people are now becoming concerned, Dr. Robinson observed that many ecologists feel that man may be "on the way out." Since we have persisted in viewing everything from a human point of view instead of recognizing that we are but a small part of our environment, he siad, we are in the midst of a technological revolution and a knowledge explosion.

We can do things on an increasing scale to the point that we are now able to destroy ourselves. Through our increase in longevity and the population explosion, we have brought the danger of famine much closer.

He pointed out that one ship load of DDT dumped in the ocean at a critical place might accomplish the destruction of the human species. Even with minimal use of DDT, we have succeeded in eliminating or endangering some species such as the brown pelican and the coho salmon. DDT in the ocean could cause a breakdown in photosynthesis which presently provides most of the oxygen that we breath. A miscalculation of DDT effects, atomic energy effects or tohers could be a fatal error to all of mankind.

Dr. Robinson stressed that solutions are available to all of our problems. He told the Rotarians that are need is to evaluate the hazards in the items developed by our new technology and that we must control our technology to assure our survival. Diting the automobile and electric induatries, he stated that controls are difficult because the industries which must be controlled are so entrenched and of such great economic importance.

SFC. ALFREDO TAGAB of Marina has received his second award of the Army Commendation Medal for meritorious service in Alaska where he was assigned with the Mail and Distribution branch of the Office of the Adjutant General as Noncommissioned Officer in Charge. It was presented here at the Army CDCEC where he is now assigned for the second time, by his superior office, the adjutant general, at left, Col. Ivan Iler. Army Photo.

Tax Deduction

As a result of legislation signed into law by Governor Reagan, tax deductions now may be available to local small business employers in the Monterey area who are interested in training and hiring disadvantaged workers. According to James Pullen, manager of the Monterey office of the Department of Human Resources Development at 480 Webster St., that office will begin immediately to receive applications from employers who wish to take advantage of the California Small Business Tax Incentive Act. This act seeks to encourage small - business employers to supplement the job opportunities being offered the disadvantaged by government and large employers.

Pullen explained that an employer qualifying uner the program may deduct on his State income tax return an amount equla to 50 per cent of the direct training costs and wages, or other compensation paid to a certified trainee while in training. This special deduction is allowed for a maximum 18 month period for each trainee continuously employed for not less than six months.

Employers wishing to participate may obtain futher information from Pullen's office. Applications for trainees must be postmarked, or be otherwise received, no later than Jan. 16.

Indoor BARBECUING Tips

Charcoal barbecuing has become a year around practice with more and more families. You'll find these tips from the Charcoal Briquet Institute may help add to your enjoyment of barbecuing.

When barbecuing indoors, always use a fireplace or cooking area, properly hooded or vented. In a garage, leave doors open.

To avoid flame-ups, spread coals correctly . . . singly about one inch apart after a light gray ash has formed on them.

Charcoal briquets, in clean, easy-to-handle paper bags, burn evenly for a long period of time to assure the correct temperature.

Your cuts of meat won't curl on the grill if, after trimming the excess fat, the remaining fat is scored at ½-inch intervals.

Innovations for Charcoal Cookery

In this world of throwaways, it was inevitable that the trend should extend to charcoal cookery. A manufacturer recently introduced a throw-away barbecue grill.

The package features a lightweight aluminum pan, expandable metal grill and a sack of charcoal briquets. It could be a most handy item for campers, tail-gate picnics at football games, snowmobile parties, etc.

Charcoal briquets are becoming sophisticated, too. Lighter fluid is now packaged with some brands. Others are including wood chips.

World-Wide Habit

The North American habit of indoor charcoal barbecuing is catching on in other parts of the world. According to the Charcoal Briquet Institute, barbecuing is a trend in Belgium, France, England, Japan, Australia, Germany, Latin America and the Middle East.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. My mother is elderly and somewhat forgetful. Recently while helping clean her apartment I came across several old receipts for doctors' visits. Mother never filed a claim with Medicare for these expenses. Is it too late to do it now?

A. If the visits to the doctors were before October 1, 1967, it is too late to receive reimbursement from Medicare. If they were between that date and October 1, 1968, she has until December 31, 1969 to apply for reimbursement.

Q. I hear the term "benefit period" used in connection with Medicare. What is a benefit period?

A. A "benefit period" is simply a period of time for measuring your use of hospital insurance benefits. This is how it works. The first time you enter a hospital after your hospital insurance starts will be the beginning of your first benefit period. Your first benefit period ends as soon as you have not been a bed patient in any hospital (or any facility that mainly provides skilled nursing care) for 60 days in a row.

Q. How does Federal Employees' Health Benefits coverage compare with Medicare Coverage?

A. Federal Employees' Health Benefits gives generally the same protection as Medicare plus certain items such as prescription drugs and private nurses which are not covered by Medicare. Usually the Federal plan will not cover extended care facility or home health agency services.

Q. I am covered by Federal Employees' Health Benefits in addition to Medicare. Can I collect from both programs on my medical bills?

A. No. The Federal plans contain an anti-duplication clause. They supplement Medicare by paying for certain items which Medicare will not pay for but they will not duplicate Medicare payments.

Q. When must a claim for doctor services be filed to be valid?

A. No later than the end of the calendar year following the year in which the services were furnished. However, the time limit on filing claims for services furnished the last three months of each year is the same as if the services had been furnished in the subsequent year. As an example, the time limit for filing claims for services furnished in the last three months of 1969 is December 31, 1971.

Q. Can a Medicare beneficiary go to an extended care facility instead of a hospital?

A. Medicare pays for the extended care facility only if the patient was in a hospital under Medicare for 3 days in a row and transferred to an extended care facility within 14 days after leaving the hospital for further treatment of the condition for which he was being treated in the hospital.

During 1970, PG&E will spend $385 million to stay ahead of your growing energy needs. Not only will there be more people to serve this year, but everyone is using more and more gas and electricity.

Putting this kind of money into the California economy creates new jobs and businesses. It also means new PG&E facilities will pay additional taxes which help support local schools and government.

We're expanding and improving our facilities, so that when you turn on electricity or gas, it will be ready to serve you. PG and E

WHO CARES

BY M.J. VERCOE

You are watching TV when suddenly your lights flicker and your TV picture disappears. You wait a few moments, then switch to another station. An announcer startles you with an announcement. "San Francisco has apparently just been destroyed by a nuclear blast. We will keep you informed with ....." The TV picture again disappears.

You live 80 miles from San Francisco. You vaguely recall reading that fallout from a nuclear bast would probably drift southeastward, which means you would get it rather soon where you live. You know, too, that the blast may have been part of an attack, and that more blasts may occur at any moment at any place.

What do you do? Should you get your children out of bed and get them dressed? Should you get your family out of the house?

If you get your car out of the garage to drive to a safe area, which way do you go? What would you do if fallout started dropping on your car? What if you ran out of gas and couldn't buy any? Would your family be safer in the house, under the house, or outside the house?

We spend 80 billion dollars per year for defense. We have helped distribute nuclear war know-how to reoughly twelve other countries. We have just purchased a multi-billion dollar missile defense system on the premise that a nuclear war is imminent. We have built up a nuclear offense system capable of wiping out all of mankind five times over.

At any moment Russia may use nuclear weapons to destroy the Chinese threat, and the fallout from this could be very unhealthy in America.

In spite of all this, our government sees no reason to provide our citizens with information or training that could save millions of lives. Not a single meaningful step has been taken since the Cuban missile scare.

Do you know why? The reasons are tragically amusing, and quite appropriate for a decadent, greedy society.

Reason No. 1. Our people must not be alarmed with the idea that war could come home to America. War could lose its glamor.

Reason No. 2. There is not as much money in civil defense training as there is in making munitions to ship overseas.

Reason No. 3. Along with Reason No. 1, it could be disastrous to our war industries if our people became afraid to use wars as means of bolstering our economy.

It is significant that some European countries, including Sweden and Russia, are going to great expense in building fallout shelters and setting up survival training programs.

Shelters would be useless within a several mile radius of a blast, but for those still alive beyond the initial blast area there would be at least a chance for survival for those able to reach shelter and particularly those trained in the use of the shelters. For others instant death might be preferable to radiation death.

Where is your nearest fallout shelter? Would you know how long to stay in it? If you are not interested in a chance for survival, do you think your children should have a chance?

CONSUMER POWER

by YVONNE EARNST

It is time for New Year's resolution, isn't it: But I'm more in favor of All Year's resolutions myself. Those called "New Year's" are so easy to forget by the first of February. Perhaps if we make All Year;s resolutions, we will still think of them in April or August or October. Perhaps.

My All Year's resolution is a paraphrase of a thought expressed by Edward Everett Hale. I sums up the philosophy of this column, but extends further than just to the marketplace. It stretches "Consumer Power" to "People Power."

My resolution is this:

"I am only one, but I am one--
I cannot do everything, but I can do something--
And, even though I cannot do everything,
What I can do, I will do."

For me this resolution substitutes a positive approach for the negativism I hear all around me -- the negativism reflected in remarks like these.

"This galloping inflation just cannot go on like this, but I can't do anything to stop it." (Could you have driven your automoblile one more year before trading it in on a new model? Do you really need att the things you buy and consume?)

"I've never seen so much junky merchandide in stores." (But, did you buy it anyway?)

"No one seems to practice common courtesy any more." (When was the last time you went out of your way to thank someone adequately for a service performed rather than taking it for granted?)

"It's a shame that so many Americans go to bed hungry at night, but what can I do about it?" (When did you last write letters to Congressmen?)

"Honest men just can't survive in politics." (When did you last contribute money to or volunteer to work for your political party?)

It is sad that so many people feel powerless to change things. They are usually the same people who are good at placing the blame on "them" when things go wrong. Somehow, these poeple seem to feel that if they don't get involved--if they don't assume any of the responsibility--they cannot be blamed when the system fails.

I feel quite differently about it, though. I feel the blame belongs squarely on the very people who refuse to become involved, who ignore responsibility, and, therefore, let the selfish and greedy rule by their default.

Sometimes I think we are playing a giant game of "Pin the Blame on the Goat--Any Goat." We read the newspaper, taking note of every thing that's wrong--inflation, violence, greed, pollution, etc.-- and, then we point our fingers in all directions and, finally, jab hard in one large area, such as government, industry, labor or the enigmatic "them."

For instance, we are furious about the poluted bay, the smog inching toward us, the DDT killing the sea life. We stick the blame on big industry (who deserve only part of the blame), and then we have blame left over for government from local to national for not doing something to stop it. We do not, however, pin any blame on ourselves--we who burn our trash outdoors, who drive our gas-buring automobiles every day, who dump gallons of detergents down our plumbing systems, and who have never brought the slightest pressure to bear on any government official to show them how we feel about the problems.

Then, there's inflation. We complain because industry puts profit above patriotism. We blame labor for demanding fantastic hourly wages, pushing up production costs and prices. We blame the government for squandering money. But, we fail to pin any of the blame on ourselves. We pay any exorbitant price for goods rather than deprive ourselves of yet another luxury. We teach our children by our examples that luxuries are necessities. We condone built-in obsolescency by constantly trading up on everything from fashions to automobliles. We espect more and more government services. We are not blameles..

Most people, too, would like to see peace and order in the world. But few people seem to see the connection between having peace and order in the world and showing reasonable consideration for those about them. Yet, there is a poignant need for thoughtfulness and consideration in our relations with those we meet in the family circle, in the office or shop, on the streets and highways, in the stores and supermarkets, and on trains, planes and buses. Every individual, by his attitude toward others, chooses to make the world a more chilled, bitter and brutal place to live -- or chooses to make it a place of warmth, kindness and love.

So, have a little faith in yourself. No matter what your background, education, training or experience, you do have power.

There is a magic performed, too, when we start asserting either "consumer power" ot "people power." We no longer feel helpless. We express our desires and complaints, and, so, shed our frustrations. We sense our power, and gain confidence from it. Our stock in ourselves goes up.

And, win, lose or draw, we have the irreplaceable satisfaction of having been part of the team.

Happy New Year!

ASK IRS

Q-I have had a recent sharp rise in income. Is it too late to file an estimated return this year?
A-You have until January 15 to file a declaration of estimated tax if the change occurred after September 1. However, if you file your 1969 return and pay in full the balance due by February 2, 1970, you need not file the estimated declaration. To obtain a copy of Form 1040-ES, Declaration of Estimated Tax, send a post card to your District Director.

Q-Is a Christmas bonus taxable?
A-Yes, bonuses are taxable income and should be reported on your tax return. Employers are required to withhold income and Social Security taxes on bonuses as they do on other compensation paid employees.

Q-I've got a new maid who doesn't want me to take Social Security taxes out of her pay. What should I do?
A-Explain to your maid that unless these taxes are paid she will not receive credit towards future Social Security benefits. As her employer, you are legally responsible for seeing that the required Social Security taxes are paid. You may, however, pay her share of the tax for her.

Q-Will the fact that our daughter is getting married in December cause us to lose the exemption we claim for her?
A-If she decides to file a joint return with her husband then you may not claim her exemption. There is an exception to this rule, if neither your daughter nor her husband is required to file a return but they file a joint return to claim a refund of tax withheld. Then you may still claim an exemption for her if she otherwise qualifies as your dependent.

If your daughter files a separate return, you may claim her exemption as long as she qualifies as your dependent.

Q-In my job I often have to take work home. What do I need to prove that part of my home is an office for tax purposes?
A-To qualify for deductions, you must establish that you are required to provide your own space and facilities as a condition of your employment and that you regularly use this space for business purposes.

You must also be able to show the portion of your home used for this purpose and the time it is so used.

For example, if the office space accounts for 10% of your total space, then you may take 10% of such items as rent, depreciation, heat, light, insurance, real estate taxes and mortgage interest. If you use the office portion only half the time for business purposes, then you may deduct only 5% of the expenses as a business deduction.

Showing Cousteau Film

Jacques Yves-Cousteau's film "World Without Sun," a feature length sequel to the award winning "Silent World," will be shown this Saturday at 8 and 9:45 p.m. in the Monterey Peninsula College music hall.

Tickets, sold out for the first showing, will be avalable at the door for the 9:45 screening, priced at $1.

Cast in MPC's monthly series of outstanding "Window on the Worlf" documentaries for the fall season, "World Without Sun" fulfills Cousteau's basic proposition: that the seas do not constitute such a hostile environment that man cannot some day be as at home in them as on land.

The spring "Window on the World" series begin Feb. 20, to feature monthly showings at 9:45 p.m. through May. Brochures describing the series are available at the community services office on campus.

Talent Contest

Fremont Junior High students will compete for more than $100 in prizes Thursday, Jan. 8, at 7:30 p.m. at the school. The public is invited. Donation will be $1 per person.

Proceeds in this first Talent Contest will go toward purchase of bleachers on the school athletic field.

First prize will be $50. Twenty-four groups are entered.

Reunion

Mrs. Levi Middleton, 1112 Kenneth, Seaside, saw her brother, Joe Lewis Dowdell of Hartford, Conn., for the first time in 12 years when he visited here over the Christmas holidays. Several Middleton children — including Jane, Janeth, Susan and Terry — had never met their uncle.

Among the 115,000 persons killed in accidents in 1968, a record 55,200 died in auto crashes. More than 4.4 million persons were injured in auto accidents.

The cost to insurance companies of paying claims growing out of auto accidents is mounting steadily. From 1958 through 1968, the average bodily injury liability claim rose 58 per cent from $981 to $1,550 and the average property damage liability claim climbed 77 per cent from $151 to $267.

Health Card Careers Day At SHS

Area high school and junior college students from Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties will begin registration this week for a Health Careers Day to be held Feb. 7 at Seaside High School. "Horizons Unlimited" will be presented by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Monterey - San Benito Counties Medical Societies with the support of the Medical Society. The one day conference is designed to interest students in seeking training and employment in medical and para-medical careers, community health fields and various service facilities required by allied health groups.

The weakest link in the medical care of the United States today is the overworked physician. "Horizons Unlimited" is an attempt to lengthen the arm of the physician by introducing young people to medically allied jobs. By sponsoring a health careers day, the Auxiliary and the Medical Society is attempting to reach the uncommitted in the community to acquaint them with the possibilities of these varied and changing careers.

The careers that will be represented are medicine, nursing, dentistry and dental services. The latter will be especially arranged by the Dental Auxiliary. Others include hospital administration, dietetics, pharmacoloty, medical assistants, medical secretaries, medical librarian, laboratory technician, occupational therapy, mental health, phusical therapy, and veterinary medicine. Speech and hearing therapy, social work, medical illustration, registered inhalation therapy, prosthetic technology, and exray technology complete the list of fields represented.

The day will consist of symposia given by procticing members of the various professions, booth exhibits with equipment and information brochures, films, and a tour of Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

The public is incited to attend during the afternoon to view the exhibits which will be located in the girls' gymnasium of Seaside High School. Interested high school and junior college students can obtain registration information from their school counselors. The deadline for application is January 9.

WOMEN'S HEALTH

YOUNG COUPLES ADOPT "EXTRA" KIDS
By Louise Chase
Women's Medical News Service

Caught between profound alarm over the population explosion and a longing for a large family, many thoughtful young couples feel they have found a neat solution: to limit their own children to two and to adopt the rest.

"We haven't taken a vow or anything," said soft-spoken Ann Peabody, 29, whose husband, Gerald, also 29, is on the verge of getting his doctorate in physics. The Peabodys, originally from California, are house residents (read: mature married couple available for comfort and advice) at one of the Radcliffe College dormitories.

Of friends and acquaintances who have decided to mix adopted and biological children in their families, Mrs. Peabody added, "We've each made our individual decisions. It's not something you just jump into.

"But it may be a trend. We know many people who are terribly concerned about overpopulation. We know there are so many kids around who would make splendid citizens if only they had loving parents. Who am I to say my genes are superior? Once you've changed a baby's diapers for a few months,

Motherhood

So far, Mrs. Peabody has only changed the diapers of her biological children, Karen, 4, and Nathan, 1. But in a few years she and her husband expect to adopt a third child, probably one of interracial parentage because they feel the "little blond blue-eyed children will get adopted in any case."

Another pair of Radcliffe house residents have already acquired their adopted child, Christopher Manuel, not quite a year old, of Mexican-German parentage.

James and Catherine Austin, both 26 and originally from Flint, Michigan, became agonizingly aware of population problems in South America where they served in the Peace Corps. Mr. Austin is now working for his Ph.D. in business administration.

"When we got married five years ago," Mrs. Austin explained, "we decided that determining the size of our family was very much a moral question. We know we would eventually be able to afford a large family. But someone has to take personal responsibility for what is happening in the world. It doesn't make any difference whether you adopt first, or you have a biological child first."

Grad Students All

Other resident couples at Radcliffe who have taken the decision to mix giving birth and adopting include a graduate student in Far Eastern studies and another doing postgraduate work in education. A former resident, now teaching at Notre Dame University, is in the process of adopting a Vietnamese child. (This couple is noteworthy because, unlike most of the others, they rely on "a highly sophisticated rhythm system" to limit their biological family rather than the virtually foolproof birth control pill). Mrs. Austin's doctor, who has three children and wants more, is now considering adoption.

At the New England Home for Little Wanderers, which placed the Austin child, Casework Supervisor Robert Wise said that interracial adoptions seem to be growing and that most of the adopting parents have two motives: helping a child who needs a home and taking a personal stand against the population explosion. Almost all already have children of their own, he added.

MODESTY RULES CLINIC PATIENTS

Low-income patients refrain from inquiring about birth control out of embarrassment and fear. That is one of the conclusions reached after a study of inner-city women at a prenatal clinic here by a psychiatrist, Dr. Sanford Wolf, and a psychologist, Dr. Elsie Ferguson.

"Contrary to general belief," the researchers report, "these patients are usually more modest in matters relating to sexual affairs than their middle class sisters. If the doctor does not initiate the discussion of family planning, the subject seldom gets raised, no matter how vital it may be to the patient's well-being."

The report also suggests that lower-income women may reject birth control because of the clinic doctor's unconscious attitudes, which may clash with the values of these women. In a clinic, the mental health workers point out, the doctor-patient relationship is particularly delicate because the woman has not been able to choose her doctor as a middle class woman would. They cite the example of overenthusiastic physicians giving the impression of intruding on one of the woman's few areas of privacy.

The researchers emphasize that "a meaningful discussion" is important, because the patient has no other place to turn and she is usually bombarded by a wide variety of rumors and distortions concerning birth control from friends, relatives, and the media.

Auto thieves in 1968 were busiest in California, with 119,444 thefts, and New York with 103,557. Countrywide, car thefts hit a record 777,800.
